History of Fort Leonard Wood

Fort Leonard Wood's history began with a modest ground-breaking ceremony on 3 December 1940. From that moment until May, 1941 workers by the thousands, together with their tools and equipment sprawled across the budding army camp—to be one of the largest in the country. Work progressed through one of the wettest seasons the area had known and the muddy conditions attracted great publicity.

The new Camp was designated the VII Corps Training Area at first. When the administrative officers arrived it was named after Major General Leonard E. Wood. He had gained fame in the campaign against Geronimo and during the Spanish-American War. He was Chief of Staff, United States Army from 1910 to 1914.

Lt. Col. Leo Crabbs was the first Post Commander, with his Headquarters at 11th and Colorado Avenue. The Post then consisted of four barracks for enlisted men and one for officers. No modern facilities were available and baths could only be obtained in local towns. Construction of buildings continued and early in the spring of 1941 there was enough housing for the first cadres. The Engineer Replacement Training Center was organized under the command of Brigadier General U. S. Grant, III.

More and more barracks were being built and the railway was extended from the town of Newburg, 21 miles away. The 6th Infantry Division arrived from Minnesota by train in May, 1941 and the 72nd Field Artillery Battalion came by motor convoy from Fort Knox.

After the 6th Division (not to be confused with the 6th Armored Division) came the 8th, the 75th, the 97th and the 70th, all of which trained one after the other prior to either maneuvers or overseas shipment. The ERTC continued to function and was later called the ASFTC (Army Service Forces Training Center). The Post trained more than 300,000 men between 1941 and 1946. At one time the population was around 50,000. In 1946 the Post was inactivated.

Some 50 civilians and about 5 officers remained to safeguard the buildings and property. Soon the buildings began to fade and grass grew wild over the once busy training areas. For four years the Post lay dormant.

The Korean conflict brought demand for more trained troops and Fort Leonard Wood sprang to life once more. It was reactivated in August, 1950, and the 6th Armored Division was designated as a replacement training division. On 16 March 1956, after more than five years of training the division was deactivated and Fort Leonard Wood became the home of the United States Army Training Center, Engineer. The program now includes basic military training, advanced engineer training, specialist training and the leadership school.

Fort Leonard Wood continues to function mainly as an Engineer Training Center. Its location and its terrain features make it well suited for the training of Engineer Troops. On 21 March 1956, the Post was given permanent status.

Today a modern 4-lane highway makes the approach to Fort Leonard Wood a pleasant one. The reservation is more than 70,000 acres in size. It was part of the Mark Twain National Forest until its acquisition as a military reservation. It is in the northern end of the Missouri Ozarks.

Nearby cities are: St. Louis, 130 miles northeast; Springfield, 88 miles southwest and the Missouri State Capitol at Jefferson City, 75 miles to the north. Fort Leonard Wood is located about halfway between the towns of Rolla and Lebanon on the famous highway 66. Waynesville is the nearest town; it is about five miles from the post and is the county seat of Pulaski County.

History of the 18th Engineer Brigade

The 18th Engineer Brigade was activated on 25 October 1954 at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, to take over the task of command of all non-divisional units other than Hospital and Dental Units and those assigned to Special Troops, Fort Leonard Wood. Its history is inherited from the 347th Engineer Regiment (General Service).

The 18th Engineer Brigade was constituted on 22 July 1921 in the Organized Reserve as the 347th Engineer Regiment (General Service) which was ordered into active military service on 6 May 1942 at Camp Clayborne, Louisiana. Redesignated the 347th Engineer General Service Regiment on 1 August 1942 it participated in World War II and received campaign streamers for Normandy, Northern France, Rhineland and Central Europe campaigns.

The Meritorious Unit Commendation was awarded this regiment for exceptionally meritorious conduct in performance of outstanding service during the war in the European Theater and displayed outstanding devotion and superior performance of exceptionally difficult tasks as to set it apart and above other units with similar missions.

Upon inactivation on 1 June 1946 in Germany the 347th Engineer General Service Regiment was assigned to the Sixth Army on 12 May 1947 and activated on 15 June 1947 with headquarters in Salt Lake City, Utah. It was inactivated on 16 March 1949, relieved from allotment to the Army Reserve and allotted to the Regular Army on 25 October 1954 on which date it was activated as Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 18th Engineer Brigade at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, under the Command of Colonel Willard White.

On 15 August 1955 the Brigade had a change of commanders, Brigadier General Walter K. Wilson, Jr., then in March 1956 Brigadier General John H. Dudley took command, and upon his departure in July 1958, the present commander, Colonel Wilber A. Stevens assumed command.

HEADQUARTERS
18TH ENGINEER BRIGADE
Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri

31 March 1959

To the Officers and Enlisted Men of the 18th Engineer Brigade

The history of the 18th Engineer Brigade is one of color, honor and credit during its somewhat short existence. The following pictorial and narrative record of the recent training year adds yet another chapter to the Brigade's history.

The unit training missions, the long and difficult construction projects, reserve training support, and the support of civilian disaster missions have been done well. Each member of the Brigade can be justly proud of such accomplishments.

I wish to extend my congratulations and sincere appreciation to each member of the Brigade for a job well-done. I hope that this prepared record of the accomplishments will be as memorable to you as it will be to me. Good luck in future endeavors, whether in continued military service or civilian occupation.

HISTORY OF THE 82d ENGINEER BATTALION (COMBAT)

The 82d Engineer Battalion (combat), was activated in 1942 and was known originally as the 39th Engineer Regiment (combat) (corps). Under this name it fought on the Italian front in World War II. The unit received campaign streamers for its participation in the campaigns of Naples-Foggia, Rome-Arno, North Appennines, Sicily, Anzio, and Po Valley for the campaign in Sicily the battalion, received an arrowhead.

Near the end of World War II the unit was redesignated as the 404th Engineer Combat Battalion, but was inactivated in late 1945. While still inactive it was designated the 82d Engineer Battalion (combat), in 1947. In 1955 the battalion was activated. It has been stationed at Fort Leonard Wood. During the fall of 1955 the battalion participated in Exercise Sagebrush in Louisiana. During the summer of 1957 and 1958 the battalion was stationed temporarily at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin, to support reserve annual unit training.

The battalion has been authorized a distinctive insignia since 1942. It consists of a red shield containing a silver ox with a star on its forehead and a banner underneath the shield inscribed with the battalion motto: "Strength and Courage." The ox is symbolic of "Babe", Paul Bunyan's ox which was renowned for its prodigious feats of labor. The star represents Texas, the state of activation.

Lake Alderwood at Camp McCoy was the Scene of many Activities

Men of the 82d at Work at Camp McCoy

The summer of 1958 saw the 82d Engineer Battalion at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin. The job was supporting the Reserve and National Guard units who made the Camp the scene of their annual encampment. The men of the 82d worked hard and established a reputation for getting the job done, quickly and well. Excellent civil-military relations were made in the nearby communities, especially in the town of Tomah. As this book goes to press the 82d is due to return to Camp McCoy to continue the fine work they performed in the summer of 1958.

We lay down all their rolling roads and cut down all their trees
And if the orders ever came we'd forge the raging seas.
Whenever they want to sleep awhile
we put them up a town,
And we build the blasted bridges
so the infantry won't drown.
We get them over rivers
and across the mountain streams
Do everything but tuck them in and wish them pleasant dreams.
And when the goings really tough
and shells burst in their ears,
A whole division's apt to pray,
"God, send four ENGINEERS!"

The Month of March Featured the Integration

The month of March featured the integration of our trainee personnel into the Battalion, an Army Training Test preceded by a pre-ATT in the field and the final preparations for the 1959 trip to Camp McCoy. The ATT and the preparation for it was foremost in everyone's mind. As usual the 82d came through the test with flying colors.

CREST: The crest is the same as the 21st Engineer Battalion and symbolizes the organizations service in The Santiago Campaign of 1898 and in the Philippine Insurrection.

SHIELD: The shield is the same as the 5th Engineer Regiment of the first World War with the border added for distinctiveness. The red field and white band on the upper area symbolizes Lorraine, a first World War Battle Honor. This area also carries the Black Hourglass symbol of the 7th Infantry Division, to which we were attached during World War I. The crossed oars and anchor is the original emblem of The Engineers and Pontoniers of The Army of the Potomac.
